Challenge your colleagues under time pressure and your good nerves will be as important a skill as your technique! This is an activity possible to organize entirely indoors or outdoors depending on wishes and weather.

Blow away the plastic cups with a balloon, put candy in color order, stack the nuts using chopsticks, hang nails on a tightrope... Simple tasks that anyone can do – or? The only snag is that the tasks are to be solved in one minute! Hilarious...

We recommend that you mix individual challenges with team challenges, let us know what you want to place the emphasis on. Fire walking

How long did it take after man learned to make fire, before some decided to dance on the coals in a gesture of celebration and awe for life? All we know is that fire walking has been done all over planet since pre-recorded history. It's been done differently: with drums and in silence, on round bed of coals and on straight, on heated stones and on lava, after heavy fasting and prayers or in full warpaint. Whatever your goals and reasons are we boost your personal power so that you can use fire walking the way you want to. We teach that our limiting belief system - the actual perception of reality - can be changed. Fire walking can mean expanding the reality, moving boundaries to a new fixation. This freedom is still a central teaching of the fire walk. If you can walk on hot coals – what else can you do?

All you need is included.

Taste – a challenging taste-test chosen together with you, it can for example be a challenge concerning wine, champagne or most often chocolate.

Sensory – now it is time for the whole team to feel their way to success.

Smell – awaken your nose for here comes delicious herbs and spices.

The sixth sense – a top-secret challenge that just might change your perception of reality.

Raft building

Raft building is about the power of initiative, creativity and cooperation. Ability to find solutions to seemingly impossible problems is a valuable asset. Artistic talents and imaginative elements are rewarded when the art of engineering has done its job. It should not only float - it should be able to be paddled quickly and have that something extra too.

To help you, each team receives a set of "floating equipment" and various other gadgets. From this you must create the largest possible raft. When the craft is ready, it must be launched and, with the help of all team members, paddled and shown what it can do! May the best raft win! Can be combined with other activities with the raft building as the finale.

Creative painting

A fun creative activity that can be done outdoors and inside. Many of our clients book this regularly to find new perspectives on different issues. We begin with a brief but different self presentation – we guarantee that your colleagues never have seen you this way before. We go on with an individual exercise before we form groups to paint on the canvases. What is created is completely up to the group but the theme can be a vision or goal for the company or organization, new logo, what gives us extra motivation, drive, finding the new ways of working, customer groups, coping with stress etc.
